

Adult Bible Fellowship

Sundays @ 9:45 a.m.

Developing a community of friends you are able to do “real life” with while honoring God is essential to the Christian life. Here at First Baptist Church, we strive to help you connect with a group of believers who will provide encouragement, support, friendship, Biblical growth and opportunity to transform spiritual concepts into action. Adult Bible Fellowship groups are more than just classes, they are communities of like-minded believers who share many things in common including life-stages, backgrounds, and experiences. What’s more, these groups provide support for each other through all that life throws at them. From celebrating the arrival of a new baby, to raising children, to retirement, to providing a compassionate shoulder during times of mourning, you will find that our people are here for each other.

This list of groups and simple descriptions is a starting point for you finding the right group for you. Feel free to visit as many of these groups as you wish. Settling into the community you feel is best for you is important to us. Please feel free to contact us with any questions: 903-564-3546.

Brenton Gabbert’s Bible Fellowship Group

E201

This group is typically 25 to 40 years of age. Many are married and have children. This group utilizes a focused study time which leads to discussion for life application.

Doug Mitchell’s Bible Fellowship Group

E103

This group is primarily married couples who are 40 to 60 years of age. Bible lessons focus on life application with a significant amount of discussion and interaction. This group also looks for service opportunities and schedules multiple fellowship events through the year.

Byrle White’s Bible Fellowship Group

E203

This group is generally 40 to 50 years of age. Most of children who are grown or close to it! Bible study may begin with the leader presenting the lesson but questions and discussion are encouraged. This group also looks for service opportunities and schedules multiple fellowship events through the year.

Susie Meals’ Bible Fellowship Group

E102

This group consists of women of a diverse age. Bible lessons are teacher guided. The ladies are also pushed to understand, challenge, and apply the lesson through interactive discussion for those who feel led to weigh-in. This group uses a private social media group for further discussion, information, and prayer requests.

Bill Bethel’s Bible Fellowship Group

E104

This group includes married and single men and women. Their ages range from late 30s to early 70s. The teaching style varies week to week but is generally is expository teaching with discussion. Prayer requests and praises are central to this group’s connection with each other.

Bill Hayes' Bible Fellowship Group

E210

This group are all empty-nest couples. Bible lessons are taught by asking questions with a great deal of discussion.

Susan Bateman's Bible Fellowship Group

CLC101

This group includes married and single adult women. The Bible study time is teacher lead and guided with discussion and participation strongly encouraged. Group members take part in all aspects of the class (reading the lesson and scripture, answering and asking questions). This group also focuses time on fellowship, prayer, support, encouragement and mission work.

Danny Sluder's Bible Fellowship Group

CLC103

The members of this group are typically retire or nearly retired men and women who have been or are married. Most of the group have grown children and many have grandchildren. Bible teaching is mainly lecture style with a blending of discussion.

Sid Brannan's Bible Fellowship Group

CLC 105

Group members are typically older men and women. Bible teaching is typically lecture style with discussion and questions encouraged.

Dale Alsup's Bible Fellowship Group

E110

The member of this group are primarily men 50+ years in age. This group has been working their way through the Bible, book by book, using a combination of lecture and discussion.

Bill Crisp's Bible Fellowship Group

E112

Group members are senior adult men and women. The regular teaching style is lecture with questions while considering the historical setting of each lesson.

Charlotte Taylor's Bible Fellowship Group

E113

This group of ladies is our newest Bible Fellowship. Members are diverse in age. Bible lessons are lecture in style with open question and discussion time.

Mabel Samples' Bible Fellowship Group

E114

The ladies in this group are 70 years of age all the way to heaven! They are married but many are widowed. Bible lessons are a mixture of lecture and discussion. A microphone is used to help those who have trouble hearing. The group sits in a circle so all can see and interact with each other. Group members are given the opportunity to read or pray if they desire.

Stanley Welch's Bible Fellowship Group

Sanctuary

Group members are older retired men and women. Bible study is mostly lecture with a sweet family atmosphere among it's participants